SANTA ANA, Calif., March 19 -- LINE-X® Franchise Development Corporation has named John Q. Wesley II as its new Chief Executive Officer, effective immediately.

Wesley, a proven senior executive in the automotive aftermarket, joins LINE-X after a 25-year career with Valvoline Oil Co., a division of Ashland Inc. Wesley was most recently Senior Vice President for Valvoline's distribution sales group. Prior to that, he was President of Valvoline Instant Oil Change. Under his leadership, Valvoline Instant Oil Change significantly expanded its products and services, enabling that franchise operation to become the nation's second largest chain of quick-lube centers while driving increased revenue throughout the entire system.

"I have watched LINE-X grow to become one of the nation's top-ranked franchises in the automotive products and services category," said Wesley. "I look forward to applying my knowledge of product innovation, business development and marketing as we focus on expanding our successes across the entire protective coatings industry."

LINE-X, a leader in developing and applying the most durable spray-on truck bedliners in the business, currently has a network of more than 550 franchised locations throughout the U.S. and Canada, as well as in 23 countries. "The key is to provide our franchisees and distributors around the world with a full complement of high-quality products and services that benefit all our customers -- from discriminating truck owners to major corporations or defense contractors that demand the utmost in security and protection," said Wesley.

Wesley is a graduate of the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY. He and his wife, Karen, will relocate to Newport Beach, Calif. Their daughter, Lindsay, is at college studying art administration. Their other daughter, Kallie Lou, will be studying pre-law.
